DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE STANDS BY THE VERDICT

Restoration of District Attorney Based on Finding of Territorial Jury

By C. S. ALBERT.

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.—The restoration of Jeff McCarn, district attorney for Hawaii, to the status held by him prior to the recent litigation affecting him, was based entirely on his acquittal in the territorial courts.
A conviction would as certainly have resulted in his permanent removal from office. The affair was a sort of two-edged sword—if it did not cut one way it would cut the other way.
The axiom that all signs fall in dry weather was exemplified in the case of Mr. McCarn. For months his close friends here have been glum and downhearted. They seemed to anticipate a different outcome from the pending prosecutions. All admitted that his usefulness would be gone in the event of conviction. A large number of those familiar with all the events freely predicted that Mr. Mc-Carn would either be dropped or shifted away from Hawaii even if acquitted. It never was intended that he should be superseded or withdrawn under fire. It was fully contemplated that he would be allowed full opportunity to demonstrate his innocence and be given the benefit of every doubt.

Restoration to former status immediately followed the receipt of advice that he had been acquitted. To this was added the terse statement that instead of being the aggressor, Mr. Mc-Carn had been assaulted in his official capacity. No intimation has been made regarding the future. Justice McReynolds, Mr. Lightfoot and others made strong representations in behalf of Mr.
McCarn. These effected his rehabilitation. No official here will attempt to predict what may happen in the course of a few months. It is known President Wilson entertains a great abhor-rence for anything that savors of "gun-toting." This has caused many officials here to believe that District Attorney McCarn may be quietly transferred to some other field after his vin-dication through acquittal and the resumption of his duties has been accomplished.

GEN. SCOTT TO BE A ONE-STAR CHIEF OF STAFF

Coast paper which arrived this morning carry the information that while Brig-gen. Hugh L. Scott is the new chief of staff of the army, Brig-gen. Frederick Funston is to get the major-generalcy made vacant by the retirement of Maj-gen. Wotherspoon.
Gen. Scott is to get promotion on the retirement of Maj-gen. Murray next April, and Brig-gen. Bliss, who is to be assistant chief of staff, will get Gen. Carter's vacancy next November.
The San Francisco Chronicle says: President Wilson yesterday announced the appointment of Brig-gen.
Hugh L. Scott to be chief of staff upon the retirement of active service on Monday of Maj-gen. William W.
Wotherspoon. Gen. Scott is considered one of the most efficient general officers in the United States army, and his appointment as executive head of the military forces will undoubtedly give universal satisfaction, according to local army men. It was Gen. Scott who handled the entire border situation for many months.

The despatches giving the information regarding Gen. Scott also state that Brig-gen. Frederick Funston will get the major-generalship promotion as the result of Gen. Wotherspoon's retirement. This means that temporarily Gen. Scott will serve as chief of staff, with the rank of brigadier-general. If the news despatches from Washington are correct, until the retirement of Maj-gen. Arthur Murray, commanding the western department, on April 29, 1915, when Scott will get his major-generalship.

Secretary of War Lindley M. Garrison announced that for the time being Gen. Funston would remain in command of the troops at Vera Cruz, which is understood in army circles to mean that the administration has no immediate intention of abandoning that vantage point, but that, for reasons best known to itself, it is considered somewhat advisable to have a major-general there.

Maj-gen. William H. Carter goes on the retired list November 19, 1915, and at that time Brig-gen. Tasker H. Bliss will become a major-general.

A hearing on a return of a motion to show cause in the case of Denjiro Yokoda, who recently filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, is being held before Judge Charles F. Clemens in the federal court this afternoon.

SIDNEY COHAN TELLS OF WAR'S HORROR ABROAD

of the empire for a few weeks, and then hastened to London via Paris.
From London he crossed to Amsterdam, and thence to Antwerp, just before its capture by the Germans. It was on this last visit to the war zone that most of his pictures were secured.
"There is no doubt," said Cohan, "that the Germans have actually committed many of the atrocities charged against them. I know because I have seen them with my own eyes, and because I have pictures to prove what I say. These were privately shown to Lord Kitchener and several heads of departments in London, and convinced many of the skeptical. I will say in fairness, however, that I believe, from conversation with other eye-witnesses, that the Russians are just as bad in the east."

"All cases of excesses which I saw were the result of individual battle-madness, and I do not believe that any of the acts committed had the continuance of the German officers. I saw four young Belgian boys, whose right hands had been cut off by German soldiers, so that they might never be able to bear arms against the kaiser.
I didn't actually see the act done, but saw the boys so soon after that blood was still dripping when I took my picture. I saw two old men, who tried to defend their home from German soldiers by throwing stones at the troops—they had no weapon of any kind—stood up against their own front wall and riddled with bullets. I saw a woman, who a few minutes before I arrived had been forced to stand against a brick wall with her hands resting on the wall above her head, while German soldiers practised marksmanship by shooting at her hands. One bullet passed cleanly through the back of the right hand, but on striking the wall it was deflected, splintering and tearing the pricks so that the whole center of the hand was practically blown out, like the hole in a doughnut. Death—it means nothing in the war zone.
They bury men half a dozen at a time in pits, and the stench from dead animals in the wake of the armies is something which one can never quite forget."

"Paris and London are crushed," said Cohan. "Why, about every third woman you meet on the streets is in deep mourning. In London the principal buildings are all topped with zeppelins and searchlights, and the city goes dark at 9 o'clock."
"I want to say a word for the loyalty the illicit selling of liquor, will be set of the Indian troops, many regiments of which have been outfitted by the native princes at their own expense.

However, I believe that they get out of control of their white officers in action. As a whole they look on this war as a huge vacation. Many of them are Mohammedans, and the combined pleasure of legally killing a Christian and a white man more than makes up for any hardships they undergo.

"The British war office is taking steps to check the crazy bravery of the officers, who are being killed off like flies for needlessly exposing themselves to certain death by walking upright behind and in the trenches. The soldiers quite realize the need of digging in, and in fact the example some of the officers have set by throwing their lives away has just the opposite effect to that desired."

Cohan said that he was recalled from Belgium to make the Philippine trip, and also because the only stuff that he could get was too gruesome to be publicly shown. He got a few skirmish pictures, but even a movie man can't get much on the actual firing line, and what lies behind is too horrible to be reproduced.

"Don't Be Mad, Belle-- of course I should have known --but when I asked for Phoe-34 different shades in them-- and I didn't even know there were that many. so you can't blame me for making a mistake in color."
